Competitive Tennis Program

Goal: To teach children ages 5 and up to play competitive tennis in the most effective way. The program will focus on having the correct technique that allows students to succeed in competitions.

Program: Consists of 2 levels - Beginners and Advanced. The Program is taught from September through June, and requires students to take 2 -3 classes per week. You may start the class at any time. Each class is 1 hour long. All students start at beginner level, and as they progress and pass milestone tests, they will move up to the advanced level. During classes, students will compete with each other, encouraging them to achieve better results and work harder. A specially equipped court and unique teaching equipment is used. At the end of the season, students will be able to take part in competitions and perform the following: Forehand, Backhand, Slice, Volley, Serve, and Keeping Score.

Cost: Class is paid on a monthly basis $145 for 2 classes per week, (4 week months) or $199 for 3 classes per week. There is a onetime registration fee of $25. In case of illness make-ups are available 1 day per month. Class must be paid at the beginning of each month in order to hold your spot.

Time: Tuesday & Thursday - 3:30pm-4:30pm. Sat. class will be added later. New session begins Sept. 5, 2017.

Instructor: Andrey Portnoy is a professional Tennis coach with over 35 years of international experience, specializing in coaching all levels of junior players. In 1993, Andrey created and implemented his signature program at Moscow Tennis Academy. The main objective was coaching young children, ages 5 and up in the most effective and productive way. After leaving the Moscow Tennis Academy, he taught at the Vic Braden Tennis Academy. Andrey became a member of USPTR in 2000. 8 of Andrey's students have been offered full scholarships to college.
